

Understanding Research Gaps on Supply and Demand for Alternative Proteins

Exploring Feasibility on Alternative Protein Investment

CHALLENGE

GLG's client wanted to understand the alternative protein and food technology space. They had research gaps in areas of supply and demand for alternative proteins and sought insight into several aspects of alternative proteins, such as distribution and regulations.

THE GLG APPROACH

GLG connected the client with three top experts who formerly led Eat Just, Beyond Meat, and Quorn Foods with end-to-end experience in the alternative protein space, running alternative protein companies from ideation to product launches, leading new product developments, commercialization, scaling up, and manufacturing.

OUTCOME

The insight GLG provided helped close our client's research gaps and illuminated the best path for investment decisions. The research furnished forecasts for key players and cell culturing advances, a comparison with conventional food production, and industrywide supply and demand dynamics.

FEATURED PRODUCTS

After speaking with GLG's experts, the client understood the technical risk involved in their research and could make informed investment decisions for their business.
